

USIEF-IIE U.S. Higher Education Fairs - Fall 2012

Bangalore, India

November 4-5, 2012

The U.S.-India Educational Foundation and IIE, in partnership with EducationUSA, announce the Fall 2012 annual IIE higher education fairs and school visits in India. In addition to the fairs, now in five major cities, EducationUSA advisers offer guided visits for registered fair participants to local secondary and/or tertiary institutions identified as likely feeder schools for U.S. higher education institutions.

Country Highlight

India's improving education system has been an important contributor to the country's economic rise. In 2010/2011 students from India represented aproximately14% of the total foreign students in the U.S., making it the second largest country of origin, according to Open Doors.

IIE and USIEF, the bi-national Fulbright Commission, host fairs in New Delhi, Hyderabad, Bangalore, Chennai and Mumbai – all with a day of visits to colleges, universities and/or top secondary schools.

New fair host cities are Hyderabad, with a long tradition of students studying in the U.S., and Bangalore, a vibrant market for undergraduate institutions.
